

Hessian check.

The slope of the continuous line should match that of the dashed (reference) line over at least a few orders of magnitude for h .

